Form 990, Part III, Line 1 - Organization Mission

Our mission is three-fold: (1) to provide those facing cancer and other life-threatening illnesses with nourishing whole foods meals that can support their healing, (2) to teach teens how to cook and eat for health and to develop them as future leaders committed to making a difference in their communities, and (3) to educate the general public about the vital link between what we eat and our health.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a - Program Service Accomplishments

Healing Meals Program

Ceres Community Project's Healing Meals for Healthy Communities program includes the following key components:

1) Supporting primarily low-income individuals dealing with serious illness with free and low-cost delivered and nutrient-rich organic meals, nutrition education, and a community of caring.

2) Involving young people as volunteer gardeners and chefs, giving them direct, hands-on experience of the difference that fresh, healthy food and community make, and of their own capacity to contribute while building life and work-ready skills.

3) Engaging people of all ages and from all walks as volunteers and in-kind contributors in order to connect them to others and to their value as an integral part of the community.

•The Organization provided 71,809 meals from three kitchens to approximately 451 low income clients in crises with life threatening illnesses in the Sonoma and Marin Counties of California. Most of these clients are living with a cancer diagnosis. The others have a wide range of illnesses including ALS, Crohn's Disease, Parkinson's, MS and Hepatitis C.

garden they spend 30 minutes learning about hunger in their community, why local and organic food makes a difference, reading and understanding ingredient labels, healthy snacks, and values like inclusion and kindness.

Teens experience their importance in the world, take on meaningful levels of responsibility, learn how to work with youth from various backgrounds as part of a team, develop self-confidence and compassion, discover the joy of giving to others, and learn the healing power of food from seed to table.

Teens who are active for at least six months are 29% more likely to be eating 3 servings of vegetables each day. The percentage that say they eat fast food either daily or frequently drops from 81% to 28%. Teens are also 50% more likely to be encouraging friends and family to make healthier choices.

Teen Program Development:

In 2013 we implemented a Work Ready Certification Program to help youth prepare for work. The teens volunteer for at least three months in the kitchen and/or garden and also attend two classes a month for three months. The classes cover what work-readiness means, work place ethics, labor laws governing teen employment, writing a resume and cover letter, how to make a good first impression, and concludes with mock job interview. Thirty-one teens participated in the first series that began in November 2013.

In September 2013 Ceres became the first non-high school site for a culinary class in Sonoma County. The Sonoma County Office of Education credentialed our Executive Chef to teach the class. Teens earn credit by working in the garden and kitchen from 4-8

Community Outreach and Education:

•Ceres Community Project provides broad-based education about the connection between fresh, healthy food, strong social networks, healing and wellness. This work includes educational classes, programs offered at local community clinics, sales of cookbooks, catering operations and special events featuring locally grown and organic whole foods, and media outreach. During 2013 the Organization offered 39 classes reaching 546 people, and catered thirteen events providing learning opportunities for teens and a direct experience of how delicious organic whole foods can be to more than 1,250 people. An additional 1,301 people were reached with a healthy eating experience by providing box lunches.

Media coverage in 2013 included more than 26 separate television, radio, print and online stories reaching nearly 1.5 million people in the San Francisco Bay region with messages about the vital link between what we eat and the health of both people and planet. Highlights included evening news stories on both the ABC and NBC Bay Area affiliates, a re-broadcast of an interview on the nationally syndicated radio show e-Town (aired on 300 radio stations), and an interview on Healthy Medicine Radio reaching more than 550,000 people in Arizona. Dozens of other print, radio and TV stories featured Ceres-trained projects.

Educational Sales

•The organization sold 1,091 "Nourishing Connections" cookbooks which were produced by staff and volunteers to educate and promote healthy eating.
